DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 10 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Maruyama et al. in view of Sekerich.

There is disclosed in Maruyama a bread maker for performing a plurality of bread making processes in an oven compartment, comprising: a heater 9; a heater driving part 20 supplying power to the heater; a temperature sensor 10 detecting a temperature of the oven compartment during each of the bread making processes; a process condition storing part (memory) storing process condition data including processing times and temperatures for each bread making process; and a controller 15 for controlling the heater driving part to maintain the temperature of the oven compartment.

Skerich discloses that it is known in the art to provide multiple heaters within a bread making compartment.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the compartment of Maruyama with an additional heater as taught in Skerich, in order to enhance the heating efficiency of the compartment.

Claims 1-7 and 10-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hedenberg '850 in view of Sekerich.

Hedenberg discloses a bread maker including, within an oven compartment, upper and lower door heaters and upper and lower oven heaters (see fig. 10), as well as a control and operational assembly for the device.

Sekerich, as discussed above, discloses a bread maker control and operational assembly, including a heater driving part, temperature sensor, process condition storing part and controller.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to substitute the bread maker control and operational assembly of Hedenberg with that disclosed in Sekerich, in order to provide for use of the device with different types of bread making processes.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The patents to Nakano et al. and Takahashi et al. '512 are pertinent to applicant's claimed heater control and bread making processes. The patent to Takahashi et al. is cited for its disclosure of multiple heaters within a bread maker.
